Bluehost offers six different types of hosting: Shared, Shared WordPress, WooCommerce, VPS, Managed WordPress and Dedicated. We have broken down the details of each type in our BlueHost Price Review, but in general you can think of differences like this: Shared: the cheapest and easiest common service Shared WordPress: the cheapest and easiest way to host WordPress siteWooCommerce: the best way to host an online store with WordPressVPS: not as expensive as dedicated, and still good for business sites That should go beyond basicmanaged WordPress: even more features for your hosted WordPress siteDidyresant: the most expensive but also the most powerful hosting serviceThis step-by-step tutorial shows how easy it is to set up a WordPress site with BluePress: Seamless integration with WordPress is bluehost's most impressive feature, but it's definitely not its only feature. Below we've compiled Bluehost's best deals: The fact that you can get so much in one place is a big draw for customers. When we consulted our email database for first-hand experience of Bluehost, Steffi, a consultant, said: I used Bluehost because I could do everything in one place: domain registration, email administrator, hosting, unlimited subspaces. The paperwork was very good and what I needed back then. Bluehost uses a policy called CPU protection for all plans that use shared hosting. When you use shared hosting, it means that your site isn't the only one on a server. That's why Bluehost (and other providers) can offer web hosting so cheaply: no one pays to manage their own server. However, this means that all sites on a server need equal access to hardware resources. This is where CPU protection is offered. If your site requires too much on the server, it is intentionally denied access to additional hardware resources. The end result is that your site may become unavailable or incredibly slow. The good news is that it is rare to end the purpose of CPU protection. However, if you're using a local news blog and traffic is suddenly getting stuck because of an important story, then you may have a problem. CPU protection can come into play and if you have a poorly coded bit JavaScript runs wild. For the most part, however, CPU throttling shouldn't be something to worry about. You won't find a better WordPress host than Bluehost. Recommended by WordPress since 2005, it has tons to offer - see what we have to offer you today! To! Show me what Bluehost Has to offer Bluehost ranks in our study on the value of money, with a score of 4.6 / 5. The best part? All Bluehost plans come with a 30-day money-back guarantee. Shared hosting is Bluehost's cheapest plan, at $2.95/month for year and $7.99/month there after. Dedicated hosting is the most expensive plan starting at $79.99/month. There's always a Bluehost sale with such a steep introductory price, you may be wondering if dedicated hosting is a worthy investment for everyone. The answer is yes, that's it, but only for someone running a massive site. A dedicated server means that your site is the only site on the server and can use all its resources. Dedicated plans make sense for sites that generate huge levels of traffic (such as a successful ecommerce brand). This is definitely something you work up to, though - no website should start with a special plan! Bluehost offers a range of hosting plans, so it's worth comparing them before you decide. Explore your packages, offers and more on your site! To! Choose My Perfect Bluehost Shared Hosting Provider VPS Hosting Dedicated Hosting WordPress Bluehost $2.95 $18.99 $79.99 $2.95 HostGator $2.75 $29.95 $119 $119 $119 $119 $2.95 5.95 InMotion $2.49 $29.19 $105.69 $6.99 If you're new to web hosting or your site isn't massive, we recommend starting with Bluehost shared or shared WordPress plans. They are the cheapest and still offer a decent variety of features. When your site grows into these shared plans, you can always upgrade to more expensive but better equipped options. Bluehost Additional costs Unfortunately, most hosting providers will fill the virtual basket with additional items during payment. These odds and ends will climb the price of your plan, but you can always remove them before you make your purchase. However, some of these additional items will cost the money, depending on the type of website you are looking to get from the ground. Here's an overview of the most common extras you'll encounter: Learn more about these extra items and whether you'll need them in our full Bluehost Pricing Review.Canceling Bluehost PlanBluehost's 30-day money-back guarantee means you'll get some time to try out the platform and see if it's for you. But it is important to make this decision within the first 30 days, because after that Bluehost does not offer any refunds or cancellations. When we consulted our Bluehost review email database, the cost of add-ons came out as an area for improvement. One reader said: [Bluehost is] related. The more add-ons you buy, the more expensive it is. When asked about an improvement they will make in Bluehost, the same reader suggested: Create different level packages for add-ons and features. The best indication for a secure website is ssl certificate (secure socket layer). SSL certificates allow users to know that any information they share on your site will be safe, and these certificates are marked with the padlock and https icon at the beginning of a web address. Any plan of the comes with a free SSL certificate, so you should never worry that visitors receive a warning that your site is insecure. For improved security, you can buy premium SSL certificate at $49.99/year. This would be a worthy investment for e-commerce sites or any site where users will log in with a username and password and/or provide sensitive information (such as credit card details). Other free Bluehost security features include spam linker protection, hotlink protection and access to Secure Shell. In general, Bluehost includes more than enough security measures to get a standard site from the ground up - but if you're looking to scale your site or sell online, you might want to invest in a few extras. Bluehost offers many additional security measures to choose from, but they can quickly add and increase your account, so it's important to choose wisely. For example, SiteLock Find (Advanced Ecommerce Protection) costs only $1.99/month, but if you want to buy it, you need to charge annually at a price of $23.88/year. It's still not much to ensure online shoppers are safe, but it can be hard not to feel blinded when paying. It has to be! Fortunately Bluehost is quite covered you, so you can merge online with peace of mind. See what's included even in his basic plans. To! Show me What I get with Bluehost We know that a large part of you read our hosting reviews because you are dissatisfied with your current hosting provider and want to switch. With this in view, we have looked at how easy it is to make the switch to Bluehost.The good news is that it is quite simple. There's a DIY approach below, or you can pay Bluehost to move your site for you. There is even a bonus free migration offer for qualifying websites: 1. Moving your own site to BluehostManage the migration process is quite easy with Bluehost because it uses the standard cPanel dashboard, so you can follow a general guide to migrating your site (like ours!) without encountering any surprises. It's a step-by-step process that can take some time, and people without a lot of technical confidence can feel nervous giving it to them. For $149.99, Bluehost will take full control of moving your site to its servers (In fact, you can move up to five websites and 20 email accounts for that price). Bluehost ensures that there is no downtime in this process and 24/7 support during and after it is completed. For many people, just someone else owns this process will cost every penny. It is worth noting that this service is not available for reseller, VPS or loaded server accounts. Not many hosting providers offer such an end-to-end switching service, so it's a huge tick in the box for us! Some WordPress sites are actually eligible to migrate to Bluehost for free! Simply fill out the form on the Bluehost website after you have signed up for a hosting plan and as long as there are no complex extras, a bluehost expert will your site for free! Bluehost ranks number one in our customer support survey, earning a perfect 5/5. It has a variety of support options, including live chat, email support and 24/7 telephone support. One user rated Bluehost's customer support as a top purge rate, citing their own experience with the live chat option: I had several problems caused mainly by my own mistakes, and they've always helped me fix them. They are easy to contact via live chat and I honestly do not think I have had to wait more than ten minutes to talk to anyone. ... But we wanted to find out first-hand bluehost customer support, so we tried it ourselves. Specifically, we tested the ease of use and effectiveness of two important features: bluehost knowledge base and Bluehost chat. Overall, these features exceeded our expectations by 9%. Although we were impressed in both areas, we were more impressed by Bluehost's expansive, knowledge-seeking hub than its live chat capabilities. We would like the Bluehost team to enjoy live chat to make it clearer how we can reach the same team member again in the future in case we had more questions. However, there are still plenty to like about Bluehost's live chat feature. When we tested it ourselves, the agents' responsiveness to our questions separated from bluehost from other top competitors: All my questions were answered quickly and accurately, and the conversation felt friendly and natural everywhere. But it wasn't just a reaction time that impressed our testers, it was also a quality of response: The agent always responded with relevant and useful information, often involving connections and longer answers than I expected. They definitely seemed knowledgeable and in a good position to help me. And if live chat isn't your preferred method of communication, Bluehost offers three different technical support numbers that you can call instead, depending on your needs: General QueriesVPS and Dedicated HostingWordPress Help A good thing about bluehost's website is that it offers immediate answers directly to the primary help page for some of the most common issues. For example, suppose you can't figure out how to transfer your WordPress site from another host - you can click on this problem on the help page, and then show you several ways to solve the problem, including a help article, live chat, and the specific phone number you need to call. If you feel especially technologically savvy, it's worth trying to find the answer on Bluehost support forums yourself. It is often quicker to make the research independent and will eventually provide a better understanding of how the site works. Overall, Bluehost exceeded our customer service expectations the most compared to three other hosting providers we tested. For example, when Bluehost exceeded our expectations by 9%, HostGator exceeded them by 3%. Other providers like A2 Hosting and InMotion don't even our customer service expectations, which started at a baseline of 80%. We have used Bluehost support ourselves and found it to be fast, useful and easy to use. If you need a helping hand, Bluehost is there 24/7. To! I want to see Bluehost Bluehost customers most impressed by the platform's assistance and support services. One user named Robin wrote: 'I used Bluehost for more than five years on my WordPress website. I had several times when my site came down due to installed plugin problems and I could not figure out what to do. Every time they helped me fix the problem quickly. Very clean and clean. Michael, another Bluehost user, had to say this: 'I'm not an expert website, so I think it's better to ask someone before clicking around and interrupting something. Every time I had a question, I used live chat - with an average waiting time of three seconds for someone to join me. I have always received a quick and clear response from a friendly representative in less than five minutes. Clean and intuitive, the Bluehost interface is a dream of customer support, uptime and WordPress integration are also strengths for Bluehost. It also performs well in value for money - as long as you don't forget to keep your eyes peeled for extra costs during the order. Michael even went on to write: Just read everything carefully to know what you're signing up for. Also, pay attention to plans and extras - know what your website requires and just avoid others. And we have to agree! RestrictionsMulty Bluehost customers expressed frustration with the lack of preinstalled features. True, Bluehost has a lot to offer, but it's also true that you need to actively choose which of these offers you want on your site - and often at an extra cost. Will you become one of Bluehost's lucky customers? There's only one way to find out - go to bluehost's website to see if it'll tick all your boxes. Let's see - Show me more from Bluehost! We now know about the additional costs that need to be purchased outside of Bluehost's plan. But there are many additions that come included in any Bluehost plan. In fact, the most basic plan, with bare bones you can buy with Bluehost (basic shared plan, $2.75/monthly starting price) still comes with: 50 GB SSD storageMeasured traffic SSL certificate (remember these?) 1 domain includes 5 parked domains25 under domains And if you get a floor up to plus Shared plan (at an introductory price of $4.95/month), the number of websites, SSD storage, domains, parked domains and under domains all become unlimited. Plus Shared also gives you 30 free days with one Office 365 mailbox and filtering junk email through Spam Experts. How much should a domain name cost? A beginner's guide to domain names In our overall hosting rankings, Bluehost comes first before hosting heavy categories like HostGator and GoDaddy. In separate categories Bluehost are ranked first for customer service, second for uptime and second for value for money It's also the best hosting provider to manage a WordPress site with. If sly features are your top priority, then you may be better off with InMotion rather than Bluehost - as we've seen, Bluehost's extras and costs can be confusing. Our conclusion?
